A ND Richmond society season will begin with a rush this week. The presence of so many distinguished women in tom to attend the convention of the United Daugaters of the Confederacy will be the occasion for some very brilliant entertaining in their honor, and receptions and luncheons and a number of very handsome dinners will be incident to their stay in the city. Much official business is to be transacted, but there will be many hours that the visitors will not be engaged, and business is to be transacted, but there will be many hours that the visitors will not be engaged, and business is to be transacted, but there will be many hours that the visitors will not be engaged, and business is to be transacted, but there will be many hours that the visitors will not be engaged, and business is to be transacted, but there will be many hours that the visitors will not be engaged, and business is to be transacted, but there will be many hours that the visitors and luncheons and card parties given in honor of special guests visiting here.

Last week the deburantes were much in evidence at a number of small team luncheons and card parties given in their honor. Only one big debut reception has been given so far, and that is the reception given Tiesda. Incheons and card parties given in their honor. Only one big debut reception has been given so far, and that is the reception given Tiesda. Note that the lisual very shortly by the ciub and, while it sounds like a very simplifying in itself, it is really a very momentous occasion. Many a debutante's season is made or marred by the fact that she did or did not receive an invitation to the "Monday" germans for no matter how many rows of perfectly good suitors are beseeching one of attend, a dance, the person in question cannot be present unless she has first been invited by the ciub.

It is possibly the only really exclusive organization left to mark the line between the society past—that is those whose fathers and mothers have danced at the bails and belonged to the club and graced the bail rooms of a past generation—and society present, that is, new people, newer elements and more or less cosmapolitan. It is a very conservative and dignified affair, at very conservative and dignified affair, at very conservative and dignified affair, be reported to the guest scated at small the factories of beautiful women have helped to make it the leading society event of the Stonohoe's wedding will be a

Since the very recent dissolution of the Tuesday German Club many rumors have been on toot for a new club, since the younger set must be amused and a junior cotilion is quite a necessary adjunct to the winter's list of charming affairs. A meeting was held at the Commonwealth Club on Thursday evening of last week, with Richard A. Osterioh as chairman. Full particulars of the meeting could not be greatly of the club, and can be greatly increased in interest if each member shers of the edicula, and that the principal business transactor was a vigorous debate on constitution and bylaws. These were reterred to a committee to be adopted in a written form. The invitations list of the old Tuesday was also scrutinized and referred to a committee.

Profiting by the experience of Junior Cotilion Clubs in the past, the new club will be held later in the month for the election of officers for the new club—should there be a new club—and it is understood that the name will be Bachelors' Co. Clilion, and the members are asked for the club, and can be greatly interessed. This being the only occasion on which members are asked for contributions, it is hoped that they will respond liberally. Mrs. C. D. Wingheld and her committee will be held, when Henry Sydnor Harrison's "Queed" will be discussed, under the direction of Mrs. Henry A. Sampson. On Friday afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock.

On Monday afternoon the annual book reception will be held at the Wo man's Club. The club library, which numbers over 300 volumes, is a popular feature of the club, and can be greatly increased in interest if each member will denote one book that she would like to read. This being the only occasion on which members are asked for contributions, it is hoped that they will respond liberally. Mrs. C. D. Wingheld and her committee will be held, when Henry Sydnor Harrison's "Queed" will be discussed, under the direction of Mrs. Henry A. Sampson.
